When I saw the full size of this quilt I decided to try to see how small I could get each row. Once I had accomplished quilt, I decided to hand quilt. Forever giving myself a challenge.

I knew exactly what I wanted to do. The jacket is wool on corduroy. After finding a pattern I really liked, I used my GO cutter shapes to cut the wool. Of course, I wanted to embroider each shape different.

Jennie's Crazy Quilt

Known only by Jennie

Designed By: Known only by Jennie

Quilted By: Known only by Jennie

Hand Pieced, Appliqued, Embroidered and Quilted

I purchased this crazy quilt at the Parma Antique Mall. I'm calling the quilt "The Average Woman's Crazy Quilt" because most crazy quilts that survived were made out of silks, satins, and velvets. They were embellished with beautiful embroidery stitches in fine threads, etc. Because they were not meant to be used, they were very lightly used and often stored away for safekeeping. On the other hand, this handsomely done crazy quilt is made of flannels, wools, upholstery dressmaking fabric and embellished with, I'm imagining, a woman of average means named Jennie who had an artistic flare and made this lovely quilt from what she had available to her. I'm thankful to be its newest owner. This quilt will not be numbered for voting for People's Choice.

I had purchased a panel a while ago in Marshall, "Quilts at the Marshall House". I have been experimenting with panels. Using an idea seen on Pinterest, I graphed out a block using black and a more modern approach with solids. Like seeing a garden in the night's sky. (Designed by Linda from a Benatex Pattern "Stone Cottage".)

Designed By: Laura Heine, Deer Pattern
Quilted By: Karen Trumble

Machine Pieced, Appliqued and Quilted

I had quickly pieced my applique, but could not commit to a background. I wanted something different though. Instead of a graph quilting, I had Karen add trees, a deer habitat. When I got it back I wanted a little more - added the switch grass and a butterfly. When you see a deer in nature, usually it's the antlers behind the grass, not the deer!
